Tradition!

Mac Johnston

Come see our favorite violinist reprise his role as the Fiddler in Fiddler on the Roof. Mac Johnston, whom many of our members know from Sunday service serenades at the Wilton Congregational Church will be featured in the Fairfield Center Stage's production at the City Wide Church in Bridgeport. Through the generosity of Mac and Fairfield Center Stage, Stay at Home in Wilton has been gifted a block of tickets for the Sunday, October 11th performance at 3pm. If you are interested in experiencing this special performance, reserve your ticket as seats are limited by calling 203-762-2600 or emailing events@stayathomeinwilton.org. In addition, we are planning a pre-show lunch at a nearby restaurant. Need a ride? Call SAHW at 203-762-2600!

Safety First for Our Seniors

Stay at Home in Wilton has successfully launched its Home Safety Program, made possible through a Connecticut state grant. The program helps our members make essential safety improvements so they can continue living securely and confidently in their own homes.

The initiative has already supported projects ranging from major improvements, such as installing new walkways and upgrading electrical systems, to providing safety equipment, including carbon monoxide detectors, fire extinguishers and grab bars. Free first-aid kits were also distributed at Stay at Home in Wilton's recent barbecue.

Throughout the fall, Stay at Home in Wilton will continue making improvements in members' homes and delivering needed safety supplies. We are also looking forward to two upcoming educational programs focused on protecting seniors at home and in the community.

On Friday, September 25, at 11am, the Wilton Police Department will welcome Stay at Home in Wilton members to a presentation at its new facility. In light of recent break-ins, officers will discuss practical ways seniors can stay safe in their homes. The program will also include a tour of the new facility.

On Wednesday, October 7th, at 11am, Stay at Home in Wilton will partner with the Wilton Library to bring another critical issue to the forefront: scams targeting older adults. Scammers frequently prey on seniors, and new schemes are reported every day. Representatives from the Wilton Police Department will explain common warning signs, identify current types of fraud and share practical steps seniors can take to protect their personal information, finances and identities.

Through home improvements, essential safety equipment and timely educational programs, Stay at Home in Wilton remains committed to making safety for our seniors a priority.
